PARIS, June 26.—(UP)—Premier Leon Blum will motor to Geneva tomorrow to propose convocation of a committee to study the possibilities of a "United States of Europe," formed along the lines suggested by Aristide Briand years ago, it was learned tonight.

The union would be open to all European members of the League of Nations and also to Germany.

When Briand laid down his plan for a 'United States of Europe," for a 'United States of Europe,' he had peace in mind, but his action was purely political, it was said. Now, however, politics have been shoved into second place, and Blum is expected to advance economic and commercial arguments to

John Nance Garner, arriving here last night to be on the scene of victory, will be renamed at another session today for the vice presidency.

Tonight the two will open wide their campaigns for re-election in speeches accepting renomination at a mass meeting in Franklin field. The mention of Roosevelt's name when he was placed in nomination Judge John E. Mack, of New York, had touched off an hour-long demonstration in the afternoon session. The turburlent night session was marked in addition by a noisesplashed drive to induce Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, to change his decision and seek re-election. The governor's own seconding of the Roosevelt nomination which was allowed to run far beyond the usual-time limit, was given a special place on the program.

It was Mack, picturesque in his old-fashioned black shoestring tie, who touched off the 50-odd-minute demonstration for the man whose personal and political friend and adviser he has been for more than a quarter of a century.

Cobb Says: Captain Will Play Center

By IRVIN S. COBB.

Copyright, 1936, by North American New paper Alliance, Inc.) SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 26. From the city of brotherly hotel keepers, goes forth the loyal host, riding on a platform which indicates that, while the captain of the team will continue to play center, he'll be prepared to slide over into left field in case of a high fly dropping in that territory. But, of course, he can always hurry right back.

And now won't it be like those scandal-mongering republicans to intimate that neither Thomas Jefferson nor Andy Jackson will be sent in as an emergency batter so long as Tugwell and Frankfurther and Hopkins keep their health? Or to allege a democratic impulse to call for a new deal in umpires, those nine elderly gentlemen in silken robes at Washington having failed robes at Washington having failed to give satisfaction.

But the final scene at Philadelphia is a refutation of the libelous assertions of those prairie state boys that our fellows didn't keep our 1932 pledges. For we're doing something for the forgotten man—renominating Uncle Jack Garner. Some fellows wouldn't appreciate being the tail of the ticket, but Uncle Jack will. The tail doesn't have to bite or even bark. All it has to do is wag, and, when weary of what's going on at the front end, needn't wag.

Outside of the fact that the band played "Dixie" twice and "Swanee River" once, the solid south doesn't appear to have got such an awful lot out of this convention, does it?

Mr. Chairman and delegates to the Mr. Chairman and delegates to the democratic national convention:
We meet again. Four years ago we met at a period of great concern, a period of depression and disatisfaction, and a period of widespread alarm as to our farming and business prospects and the future of our country as a whole.

At that time, the convention has promised an earnest, sincere and de-termined effort, under the leadership of a man whose courage was unques-tioned, to bring about a recovery from ills accentuated and increased republican uncertainty and insta-

We now meet after three years of such effort. We meet to account for our stewardship, and to give to the people the man best calculated to succeed in carrying out and continuing the rehabilitation so quickly begun and so successfully carried out since 1933.

WERE RAISED AS ROYS IN ADJOINING TOWNS

I am here to Lominate such a man. Probably because I have such an intimate knowledge of this man and his early history, I have been selected for the honor of presenting him to you.

We were raised as boys in adjournment hor we were raised as boys in adjoining towns, but with different horizons. My horizon was the Hudson valley—his the universe.

I was his senior in years. As a democratic officeholder, I presented democratic officeholder, I presented his name as our candidate for state senator in 1910. I believe I knew him better than most of his constituents. I told them that this young man was ready to carry out the heritage of his birth, to give his time and his life for the benefit of his state and his country.

His district was almost hopelessis republican. With his usual period it in company with Dick Connell, a much older man, the democratic can-

Dick had been the perennial demo-cratic candidate in this wholly re-publican district. Whenever he came to a little old red country school-house, he went in and made a speech on patriotism to the pupils and teacher—and he whispered to his younger co-candidate, "You know, it younger co-candidate, "You know, if I live long enough for these chil-dren to grow up, they will vote for me and in time elect me." FOUGHT THE FIGHT

OF COMMON PEOPLE This vision grew into a reality 1910 because the congressman as senator were both swept into office. From the beginning our nominee although coming from a distinguish ed family, fought the fight of the common people, and against the dom-ination of the railroads, then at the height of their power. He opposed the influence of financial interests in politics and government. He showed a complete understanding for the farmers who had just come through a period of depression and farm foreclosures. He opposed the efforts of the chambers of commerce in his district to freeze out industries which paid their employes a living wage. He opposed the black-list, secretly managed by manufacturers' associations.

When this young man arrived in Albany, he found that a leader of his own party was about to send to Washington as United States senator, a man definitely tied up with a powerful and selfish traction interest.

He immediately took up the figh against this betrayal of the people'. trust. He continued it with such de-termination and unflinching courage that the nomination was blocked and there was selected as United States senator a lawyer and judge of un-questioned probity and integrity. AT LONG ISLAND HOME CONFIDENCE OF PEOPLE

SHOWN IN RE-ELECTION The triumphant re-election of our nominee in 1912 was proof of the confidence the people of his district had in him, and a recognition of his leadership in the state senate. It was also a demonstration of the fact that he represented not any particular in-terest, but the entire people.

His service in the New York legislature directed the attention of the nation to this young man. He was invited to become assistant secretary of the navy by President Woodrow Wilson, a post formerly filled by his Illustrious cousin

Here again were shown his determination and ability to get at the bottom of things. He familiarized himself with every detail of the navy. He covered and became familiar with the needs of every purt of the country, and took an active part in the try, and took an active part in the World War both here and in Eu

At San Francisco in 1920 his party recognized his fighting ability by nominatin; this young man for the office of vice president. His brave fight and his noteworth, loyalty to his chief are history now. Outstanding above all in that campaign was his sportemanship in defeat. "He could take it."
Then in 1921 came the sudden atfliction which seemed to all of us would forever remove this young man from public life. WAS BEING PREPARED

FOR GREATER WORK

We did not know in those days that Providence was only preparing him for the greater work the future had in store for him. I had not then studied Emerson's essay on the law of compensation. No one can have full sympathy for the misfortunes of others until and unless he has suffered himself.

All of the suffering through which he has gone has broadened his heart, has given him a greater capacity for sympathy and understanding of human needs of all kinds. It prepared him for the stricken nation which We did not know in those days sympathy and understanding of him man needs of all kinds. It prepared him for the stricken nation which was placed in his hands on the Fourth of March, 1933; it prepared him for the emergency and radical aurgery necessary to rid the body corporate of the diseases which beset it. As an early evidence of this sympathy he undertook the assistance of crippled children that they might receive the benefit of greater efforts to make their lives a bit more happy and more complete.

During all these years the home life of this young man remained typically American. He lived in his home at Hyde Park; he managed the farm, happy with his trees and his fields. Years ago he started soil conservation on the rough portions of his own farm by the planting of evergreens. It was one of the earliest examples of the proper use of land.

HEARD CALL OF FRIEND

ABOVE OWN BEST INTEREST He maintained the same friendly contact with his neighbors and with the people of his home county, alive to their personal problems and to general local business affairs, content in the friendship of his Dutchess county friends.

Happy in the knowledge that ne was pulling his own weight in the boat in 1928 he came back to public life in New York state, not because of any political ambition of his own, but solely in answer to the call of friendship.

He came to 1932 with a background of four successful years as governor of the Empire state. Despite an opposition majority in the legislative body, his every nomination had been confirmed, and nearly every important proposition submitted by him was ultimately approved and put into legislative form. In his own state, as governor, he came to be known as the champion of the liberties of the plain people.

In 1932, not only the democratic party, but the entire country were on the lookout for a man of broad vision, one conscious that the prosperity of the United States depended upon the well-being of the entire people and not of any special class. ple and not of any special class.

It had at last become apparent that the great banking and financial and business interests had through mismanagement, lack of foresight and throughout the land. throughout the land.

The country, led by the democratic party, turned to this young Galahad for relief, for aid and for help.

As a result, on March 4, 1983, there came to the city of Washington, as the chief executive of the United States, a man with this splendid background and thorough training, filled with releast determination. filled with relentless determination to rejuvenate this nation, to break down special privilege and to place this country on a permanently sound and stable footing. He surrounded himself in his cabinet with the most able and progressive representatives in the union. He did not wait for prosperity to come around the corner He knew that the best defense to depression was an attack. He saw that unless something was done at once starvation would soon face the United States. CONTEST IS BETWEEN GRED AND HUMANITY. With the aid of his splendid cabinet, with the aid of a democratic congress and with the aid of the forward-looking, country-loving and farseeing progressives and republi-cans, he proceeded to place this country on its feet.

We nave blazed a path to pros-perity and security. Our faces are towards progress We shall not turn back in this conflict between greed and humanity.

Why these complaints? WEALTH LOSES CONTROL

OF LEGISLATIVE FOUNT. Every American knows the answer. These classes of privilege have seen the handwriting on the wall. They know that under this administration the power and influence over government which their wealth had given them is now gone.

They wnow, from the new law su-pervising holding company, regulat-ing of the sale of securities, from the social security act, and from the new tax laws, along with a score of other measures that the control of legislation has passed from their hands to the people themselves. The issue is now whether the people are going to retain that control of the processes of government or whether they are going to turn them back to this same small group whose destructive abuse of their former power was responsible for all our troubles.

We are ready for the issue. We have ended starvation, bread lines, soup kitchens, and have brought this country through the greatest depression ever known.

There need be no undue concern that the abrogation of the two-thirds nominating rule by the democratic convention will mean loss of ger that the party in future will not always select its strongest candidates.

During the more than half a century when the party was largely a sectional one, drawing its chief support from the south, the rule served a good purpose. During recent years the party has become increasingly national in its scope, thus the principal reason for the estable with the religion of principal reason for the estable will be rated an ugly duckling to morrow. Take the case of Lillian Russell. It she walked into a room of young girls today they would snicker at her exaggerated bust, waist-line, and pompadour hair style. To reverse matters, Katharine Hepburn, with her high cheek bones, sharply the principal reason for the establishment of the rule.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS BY PAUL MALLON.

FOOLER PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—That simple platitude about the consumer in the democratic platform means more than it It is Plank Number 4, and consists of one sentence:

'We will act to secure to the consumer fair value, honest sales and decreased spread between the price he pays and the price the producer receives.

This sounds like a choice collection of fine words meaning nothing, but the real significance of it would be apparent if you could see the rest of it as originally written by Mr. Roosevelt's platform manager, Sen-

Unfortunately, the practical politicians on his platform committee would not stand for more than one sentence. They used scissors on the rest. Mr. Roosevelt was content to get in just a single line on it as basis for the future action he has in mind, so it will stand officially as meaningless until he chooses to interpret it. NOTE-As the liberal insiders here say, that is a very touchy socializing reform which must be approached very gradually. They, like Mr. Roosevelt, were content in the end merely to "get a line in on it."

COLLECTIVISM What Mr. Poosevelt has in mind, here again, is possible development of the consumer co-operatives in competition with private business and application of the Scandinavian collectivist system in some degree to the United States. Apparently he has no specific plan on it yet. Specifications will await the return Europe of the Baker Co-Operative Mission recently appointed, but the President knows what he wants to do, and if he works true to form, he will not pay much attention to the fact that the convention politicians explain the idea.

NOTE-Incidentally, Senator Wagner may go to Europe this sum mer to look into the Scandinavian co-operatives himself. He has been invited. Undoubtedly he will be in charge of any legislation which may arise out of the new course upon which Mr. Roosevelt is embarking.

POWER ROW What kept the platform committee out so long was inside squabbling over planks which did not even-tually appear in the final published version. Hottest and last squabble was over a power plank which hinted at government ownership of pub lic utilities. Senator Black, of Alabama, kept insisting on it and threatened to remain in session himself for three weeks unless the plank was kept in. Cooler Senator George, of Georgia, and Bailey, of North Carolina, were the ones who stopped it. They said they would carry their fight to the floor of the convention unless the plank was dropped. Eventually a special subcommittee was selected to write the milder power plank, PEACE-MAKING The inside solution of the two-thirds rule compromise came not from the top of the convention but from an alternate with half a vote in the rules committee. As the insiders tell it, one Francis W. Durbin, of Ohio, was sitting on the committee as alternate for his father, a treasury official who is something of an amateur magician. The appointment of a prestidigitator to the treasury was considered particularly significant in view of the money going on at that time.

The youngster is said to be something of a trouble-maker within the Ohio organization, but apparently he knows how to settle it as well as to make it. He sat around listening to the bigwigs argue until he wearied and suggested that the national committee study reapportionment of state delegation strength to cool off the hot-blooded southerners. The idea was taken up immediately by the committee and adopted as usual. Boss Farley is getting the credit for having instituted it.

CONVERSION It is incredible but true that the two persons responsible for the mention of a constitutional amendment the platform were Permanent Chairman Robinson and Senator Wagner, Robinson said nothing about it in his convention address, but he started working on the platform committee to mention a constitutional mendment soon after he arrived. Wagner, of course, has always been in favor of that method, but Robinson's conversion could have been efected by no one except the man in the White House.

Even so, the mention of the constitutional amendment is hedged with to such an extent that nobody here believes Mr. Roosevelt will ever get around to espousing it.

PROFILE Shrewdest stroke in the convention management was quiet suppression of the liberals. Of the left-wingers, only Sena-tor Wagner appeared prominently before the convention. Absent or suppressed were the Hopkins, Tugwells, Wallaces and Ickes, et al. Miss Perkins appeared, but only in a social role. The reason was that the congregation here was composed almost entirely of politicians. Few, if Dealers see it, Pennsylvania is slipping from its republican moorings, and was slipping in 1932 far enough to indicate a democratic victory in 1936.

The 1928 republican majority of 1,000,000 was recorded when Alfred E. Smith was opposing Herbert Hoover; a wet Roman Catholic opposing a dry Protestant. Rural Pennsylvania then was not as wet as it is now, in sentiment, although Philadelphia was.

Even Kentucky that year went re-

Even Kentucky that year went republican by a huge majority, a startling event in the state's history, although, in state races, Kentucky had long since ceased being a Gibralitar of democracy. It had elected more than one republican governor—several in fact—since Robert G. Ingersoll, addressing an audience in the Montauk theater in Brooklyn, in 1895, said he could not believe in the existence of hell, and then amended his utterance by saying he might believe in hell if Kentucky should go republican.

In 1932, the republican majority in Pennsylvania was 157,000.

In 1934, George H. Earle, formerly a republican, resigned his post as minister to Austria—appointed by President Roosevelt—and came home to run for the office of governor of Pennsylvania as a New Dealer, apparently at the request, as well as with the blessing, of the President. He won, and Joseph Guffey, a democrat, was elected to the United States senate. Even Kentucky that year went re

Mrs. Earle is a native of Bowling Green, capital of Warren county, Ky. Within a few minutes' drive from Bowling Green, the cotton belt begins, in a few small manifestations. Some cotton, not a great deal, is grown all along the Tennessee-Kentucky border, on the Kentucky side. Mrs. Earle is of pioneer and planter stock, was "bawn an' raised" where there isn't any "r" in the alphabet, even in 1986, and only her eastern education prevents, if it does prevent, her saying "you-all." Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

My dear Louise: I notice that you have become fond of the word psychology. Well, it is a fine mouth-filling word that sounds educated and serves to clinch an argument. But are you quite sure that you know what it means?

When it became a fad a few years ago, people read about it and learned enough trade words to discuss complexes and inhibitions and the libido. And they understood that the psychologist got results by cornering his patients and asking them personal questions until they revealed the suppressed desire that was causing their misery. That wasn't far from the truth; but while the popular conception of psychology remains unchanged, the psychologists themselves continued to study and make scientifically-controlled tests until they made a discovery that changed the whole system.

They discovered a great and simple truth that everybody with good sense has known for 2,000 years.

They proved that the way to live a mentally normal life and avoid the jitters is to quit thinking about yourself and keep busy at something worth while. And they found that the only way to achieve happiness is to quit striving for it and do the things you don't like to do.

The idea is old, but people in awe of science can now accept it as rue, for the psychologists have proved it by scientific tests.

It seems to be a matter of spiritual exercise. If you live the easiest way, lying among cushions and never exerting yourself, your muscles grow soft and flabby and your whole physical system falls below par. And if you take the easy way spiritually, always gratifying your desires, never doing anything that is distasteful, humoring yourself in everything, your soul gets flabby and weak and at last you are lonely and irritable, unpopular, dissatisfied and miserable.

It really works that way, my dear. He who would save his life shall lose it, and he who gives his life shall save it. You must bury good grain in the ground or there can't be any harvest.

TAMIMENT, Ps., June 26.—(R)—
Labor leaders debated vigorously today the formation of a labor party

Recovery Paramount Issue. The New Deal was conceived by Franklin D. Roosevelt before his election to the presidency as the begintion to the presidency as the begin-ning of a new era in American politics work relief appropriation.

This opposition apparently had been and in the conduct of American government.

Speaking at Indianapolis on Octodidate, he declared:

"Our ranks are unified by the promise of giving this country a New Deal. . . . It will be the purpose of the new administration to bring order out of chaos, to institute sound and progressive and humane policies, to repair the damage that has been with potential political ramifications, wrought, to return, if you will, the people of the United States to the way of economic soundness and a more widely distributed prosperity."

Recovery Comes First. Opportunity, however, to plunge imnediately into translating his conception of the New Deal into reality was well as some democrats mourned a bit over the constitution during that perilous year, but justified their actions by reasoning that as patriots they were obliged to follow the President up to a point, despite their anguish over what the nation's crisis required them to do.

Country Votes Approval.

Thus, that first year of the Roosevelt administration saw written into law such far-reaching measures as the national recovery act, the agricultural adjustment act, abandonment of the gold standard, the emergency banking act, the silver purchase act—around nine all told—in such rapid order that Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the republican national committee, sarcasited the "broad purposes of the constitution.

Simultaneously, Alf M. Landon, who will battle him for the presidency, said that if it were necessary in order to obtain minimum wage guaranties for women and children he would support a move for such an amendment of the constitution.

The first year of the Roosevelt administration was one which both dazzled and bewildered. Republicans joined with democrats in congress in voting the President unprecedented emergency powers. Recovery rather than reform was the watchword.

Then came the congressional elections of 1934, when those critics of the administration who had complained that the New Deal was foisted upon the country without a mandate from the voters saw that argument swept overboard at the polls.

The overwhelming majorities piled up by the democrats in both the senate and house was generally construed as a specific indorsement of the New Deal.

President Roosevelt and his "brain trusters" so interpreted it.

On a New Tact.

This was evident from the program for permanent reform rather than for recovery which the President outlined in his opening message to the first session of the 74th congress.

"We have undertaken a new order of things," he declared, "yet we progress to it under the framework and in the spirit and intent of the American constitution."

Congress then proceeded to enact legislation to regulate utility companies, giving the securities commission authority to outlaw certain holding companies.

It approved amendments to TVA.

The nine destroyers were in column steaming along, five days at sea without a sight of The Georgia Tech boys were in the ships Dickerson and Schenck, with the Schenck leading.

And it was a Georgia Tech boy, eager-eyed, who set up the old seafaring cry of "Land, ho!"

What made it a story was the fact the land was San Salvador. And that happens to be the land that a lookout saw on an old, old ship some centuries ago and cried "Land, ho!" to signal the most important discovery in

It was San Salvador that Columbus first touched in October of 1492 and he touched near the point which the Georgia boy saw and called. For Columbus and his poor ships it was India and another continent. For the Tech boys it was the first sight

They crowded the rail and stared at the land, four miles The lighthouse and the rolling hills and a few houses could be seen. And from the bridge, through glasses, we made out the Columbus statue near the beach.

And so the destroyers moved on at 16 knots and San Salvador and her hills faded.

But somehow there was a wallop there. The sea doesn't change much. Its customs and its sayings remain greatly the same. And to think back to that old call in 1492 and to hear and see a sun-burned boy from Georgia call "Land, ho!" to signal San Salvador was something of a wallop.

There were the lights and the hills of Crooked island and Fortune island and finally night and Windward passage with the long column of squadron lights looking like clusters of Christmas trees in the night, and then the sight of other ships coming, hull down on the horizon, and then growing to be ships.

Their lights wink, asking what ships and where bound. In the old days the ships moved in close and the captains

The bridge of a ship is the brain of a ship. It is there the navigation is done-and navigation is akin to black magic. It is there the quick decisions are made-

Our Crackers returned home yesterday and cel-brated the beginning of a 15-day stay by walloping the Little Rock Travelers in both ends of a twilight and darkness double-header, 11 to 4 and 4 to 0.

The first double-header of its kind attempted in the Southern league found a ready response from the fans, who turned out 9,350 strong. Almost half of this number were ladies, there being 5,490 paid admissions.

Bill Schmidt, the Berkeley Bearcat, and Emil Leonard, the former Flatbush crossfire flinger, proved an invincible combination.

TWELFTH GAME.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 26.—

(P)—The matter of citizenship ruled 19-year-old Robert Rodenkirchen out of the Olympic games today after he had smashed a world record in the 200-meter dash in the semi-final track and field tryouts at Harvard stadium. After the strapping Jersey City schoolboy displayed his wares in the qualifying tests it developed he was German-born and not yet possessed of American citizenship.

Rodenkirchen, completely unaware his father's first citizenship papers were insufficient to establish the son's eligibility to represent America in the international games, unwittingly revealed to newspapermen the facts that automatically disbarred him after startling onlookers with a 21-second performance in the 200-meter semifinals.

Hill and Mailho each collected two singles. The Crackers collected 14 safeties in the opener. All runs were scored in the ninth inning.

The St. Louis Cardinals held onto their slim National league lead by handing the Dodgers their fifth straight setback, winning, 6 to 1, by virtue of Brooklyn errors and Ducky Medwick's eighth homer of the year.

An error by Babe Phelps paved the way for the Cards' first two runs, in the sixth, and Medwick's homer with a mat. on base in the seventh accounted for the next two. A hit and Earnshaw's error added another in the eighth, and two walks, a single and a long fly wound it up in the ninth with the final run.

The Cincinnati Reds pounded Bucky Walter and Hal Kelleher for eight runs in the sixth and seventh innings and defeated the Phillies, 11-6, in the first of a four-game series.

advance notices said would give ner a terrific tussle.

Katy, who first gained fame in 1931 by winning the title from Eleanor Holm Jarrett, was 4.4 seconds off her record time today but she didn't have to extend herself. At the starting gun, she left the starting line of the oriental pool with a smooth, rhythmical breast stroke that gave her a short lead over Miss Brennan. The next stroke—the back stroke—increased her advantage, but the finishing free style dash up and down the 55-yard pool gave her the final 'kick' that netted easy victory. Her time was 4:40.2.

Behind Katy and the Providence girl came a tightly bunched field in the only individual event of the day's program, featured otherwise by a third straight victory for the Washington Athletic Club of Seattle in the 800-yard relay championship. Johanna Gorman, of Homestead, Pa., finished

The best defense often is totally dependent on the bidding that went before. If the bids were honest, shrewd deductions may be made. If, on the other hand, one or more of them was psychic, a defender's problem may become difficult.

Imagine the declarer's delight when the second spade lead came up to his queen! Three rounds of hearts ending in the dummy disposed of the adverse trumps and the established diamond suit supplied discards for all of North's losers. Thus the doubled contract actually was fulfilled with an extra trick!

The sad part, from the East-West viewpoint, was (first) that four spades were cold and (second) that the four heart contract could have been defeated three tricks. If East had chifted at the second trick to a low club, the declarer would have been in a bad way. West would win and return the deuce of clubs, which dummy would be forced to ruff. The best play now would be to establish diamonds. East would win with the ace

Chair Set Is Knitter's Delight

Friendly Counsel By CAROLINE CHATFIELD. Problems of general interest submit-ted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence lawited. Your name held is confidence, write Miss Chatfield, are The Atlanta Constitution.

Some months ago a man whose wife was out of town strolled into a restaurant where one of his acquaintances sat with a group of friends. He was invited to join them and immediately became the life of the party; gay, witty, full of funny wise-cracks. Some time later this same group was dining at the same place when the said gentleman entered with his wife, who was a stranger to all of them. She was a stern, forbidding lady with a lofty air, a ram-rod back and manner that challenged anybody to cross her. Rather reluctantly the pair accepted the invitation to sit lown at the big table and pretty soon after they were seated, everybody present was sorry the invitation had been issued and accepted. Our gay, debonaire young man was a sad, sat-upon specimen who cut his eye at his jailor before he spoke and was promptly cut down by her after he had spoken. Some months ago a man whose wife fore he spoke and was promptly cut down by her after he had spoken. There was no vestige of his puppy-playfulness, no humorous twinkle in his eye, no attempted witticism in his conversation. He knew his place in mama's presence and he kept it. We have all seen it over and over

Mrs. Dan Conklin, member of the When you have checked each of your Atlanta Junior League, and one on numbers your forecast will be com-We have all seen it over and over again: A woman running the steam-roller over her husband and mash-ing him as flat as a flounder. What pleasure she gets out of crushing his spirit and cramping his style is a mystery. Maybe there is a sort of satisfaction in forcing him to con-form to her pattern of life. Yet she is chliged to know that there's no form to her pattern of life. Yet she is obliged to know that there's no such thing as demote control of a husband and that as soon as her back is turned, he will revert to type. Maybe sie gets a thrill out of her sense of power over a strong man, but if she thinks at all she is bound to know that when she has that thrill she has lost her power to give him one, except when she checks out for a trip and leaves him to his own devices. It is a losing game she plays and the partner will take ap out whenever he can get it.

The greater mystery is how a steam-roller wife gets her husband down so she can run over him. He isn't always a weaking. There are many husbands successful in the world of affairs, men who ar accustomed to popping the whip over others, yet are scared to death of their wives. Of course, when a man loves a woman to distraction he will go any lengths to please her even to humoring her most unreasonable whims. But these women who get their men down don't belong in this category. It is true that when a man feels guilty and knows there is a possibility of his wife's getting something on him, he is afraid of her. But it frequently happens that the most down-trodden husband is an exemplary citizen and has a clean conscience toward his wife Planetary Interpretations.

Below are planetary indications, according to the rules of astrology, one of which may apply to your forecast. NUMBER 906—Follow a daily hygiene routine and do not become lax in the attention to your health. Because of your natural abilities and experience, you are a valuable person to any business or institution. This is an excellent period for independent action with the object of advancing your personal interest, health, comfort, general welfare.

NUMBER 1103—You have good faculties for constructive thought and investigation. You are sensitive, alert and ambitious. You aspire to the bigger and finer things of life. Avoid speculative investments. Things may look more promising than they really are. It is better to stick to routine methods of remuneration and don't risk ready cash on tips from an uninvestigated source.

NUMBER 105—You are intense in your love nature. You desire sympathy and affection and are usually unselfish. You are not demonstrative, but show your love through service and loysity. The indications are that at the present time you will change your mind more frequently than usual. Some worry and delay may be expected in matters you are considering at the present time, but things should turn out favorably for you. has a clean conscience toward his wife and the world in general. In cases where the wife carries the cash, pays the bills and puts up for the home, it's natural that she should have the say so and that the man shouldn't ques-tion it. But in these cases, more often than otherwise, she is so busy making it appear that her husband didn't marry her for her money that she goes to the other extreme and pretends she is afraid of her husband. It is seldom that the rich wife cramps her husband's style.

Mother Nature has a lot of tricks Mother Nature has a lot of tricks up her sleeves and no matter how often we see her pull them, we never seem to catch on to the tricks or learn how to circumvent her. All agreed that "The female of the species is more deadly than the male," but how she got that way or what the deadliness consists, in, nobody has yet discovered.

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, Thursday .- We left Mrs. Gen Work's house, just outside of Morgantown, this morning at 7 o'clock and had a beautiful drive through the mountains of West Virginia. I could not help reflecting on the different types of girls and women that I had seen in the short space of three days. The gay, prettily dressed and, on the whole, more sheltered group, who belonged to the Chi Omega and dined at the Greenbrier hotel; the mixed group at Alder-Chi Omega and dined at the Greenbrier hotel; the mixed group at Alderson prison, ranging from old to very young, from entirely illiterate to highly educated, from totally impassive to high-strung and sensitive; the young people who graduated yesterday from high school at Arthurdale, children of homesteaders, already thinking of marriage and homes of their own, with no economic surety but with trust in the future and the home of worth in their own.

The older people in the audience at the second part of the music festival last night were enthusiastic and applauded the dancers. They were deeply interested and critical, too, because they knew all the dif-ferent sets. (See note.)

Bond and Share.

Tom Noras yesterday filed a trover action in Fulton county superior court seeking recovery of 50 shares of Georgia Power Company preferred stock as a result of the crash of the American Bond & Share Corporation. The suit was filed against Fenner & Beane, well-known Atlanta firm.

Noras contended he entrusted the bonds to Horace Steele, alleged employe of the bond corporation, for the purpose of having Steele sell them for him.

The petition recites that Steele turned them over to Benjamin Bradley, president of the bond corporation, and that they were sold and he got none of the receipts.

Attorneys for Fenner & Beane contended yesterday that the bonds were not sold, but that they were credited to the American Bond & Share Corporation account.

tralia are happy to tell us about their lives and homeland, if I may judge by letters which have come to me from Hugh Conlon, who writes:

"Most of the buildings of Adelaide are of brick and stone, but in retent years some of the big buildings tralia, runs in part:

"This year Adelaide is to celebrate its one-hundredth birthday. During these years it has changed from a tiny village to a large city. Colonel Light was the founder of Adelaide. Light was the founder of Adelaide, suburbs. and John Hindmarsh was the first governor. "Colonel Light chose a good site for the city. After searching for a place for a village, he decided on a spot a few miles in from St. Vincent's gulf, where there was good soil and pasture land. He arrived in May.

"During December of the same year, Governor Hindmarsh sailed into the harbor aboard the "Buffalo." Under the shade of an old gum tree, he pronounced South Australia a colony of the British empire.

"The newspapers have special pages for young people. The books I like best are adventure stries. I also like stories of achool life. I read the weekly edition of the "Modern Boy," which is printed in England."

Other things about Australia will be told in letters which I plan to print at a later time.

STOCK OFINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—The floor reports an extremely thin market both ways and operations keenly selective in character, which accounts for the rather erratic price fluctuations.

FENNER & BEANE—We look for further moderate recession with resistance developing late in Monday's or Tuesday's essent on the pect other than quiet irregularity in Saturday's short session. The correction should be concluded, however, by early next week.

COURTS & CO.—The trend continues upward and we look for only minor recession. FENNER & BEARE—We suggest confining purchases on good reactions.

BEER & CO.—We continue to favor accumulation of contracts on material set-backs.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Raw sugar was quiet today and although no sales were reported there was a little more interest from refiners at the last paid price of 3.75 for late July and Angust arrivals. Nothing was available below 3.80.

Sales were only 3.750 tons as the trade was inclined to limit fresh commitments pending developments over the week-and adjoirnment.

The range follows:

NEW YORK, June 26.—(P)—The stock market rattled its chains today, but was unable to break away from an irregularly lower trend. Renewed buying in Chrysler, some of the oils, sugars and specialties in the morning made it appear as though a recovery movement were about to get started.

The backwardness of United States The backwardness of United States Steel, American Telephone and a num-ber of other leaders, however, tended to put the brakes on what might have been a sizeable comeback. The list was not without its gains statement of his account taking the place of the stack of parking ticket duplicates.

The tickets were placed on Wilson's car at more or less regular intervals during the past month in the vicinity of the Healey building. Most of them were written by Patrolman H. O. Hambrick, working that beat. Wilson, according to the officer, neglected to answer the charges until personal contact was made with him, at which time he readily paid up his "account."

NEW YORK, June 26.—(P)—The domestic sections of the bond market remained extremely steady today in the face of a serious jolt to the foreign department caused by the collapse of Polish government and municipal issues. Same closed 22 1-2 points off. The industrials and rails used in the Associated Press averages each advanced .1 of a point, the low-yield group held unchanged and the rails were .1 of a point lower. The 10 foreign bonds used in the compilation sank to a new 1936 low at 67.6, off 2.3 points net.

United States governments were steady to firm in quiet trading. Several of the longer term maturities edged forward for gains of 3-32nds to 5-32nds of a point and the short term list did almost as well.

The market for Polish bonds was completely demoralized almost from the start of trading when brokers found extreme difficulty in finding buyers at any price. Initial sales were recorded after much delay at declines of 12 to 17 points and only by successively lowering the offering price were later transactions consumpated.

Overnight announcement that the Polish government had temporarily suspended transfer of service funds for the issues, apparently was more drastic than had been anticipated in financial quarters which had been on guard for some kind of special development ever since the government adopted extreme measures to control internal balances a month or so ago.

While payment of interest coupons and sinking fund requirements will not be interrupted, at least for the time being, the action in designating that payments be made in blocked zlotys in the Bank of Poland is equivalent to a technical default because the funds cannot be transferred quarters look for a heavy scaling down of interest rates on the issues and possibly other concessions before the situation is fully adjusted.

6:00 A. M.—Sign off. Police Charge Account Urged for "Customer"

J. C. "Jimmy" Wilson, head of Newspaper Features, Inc., may be extended the courtesy of a charge account at the Atlanta police headaccount at the Atlanta police head-quarters, it was indicated yesterday when Wilson appeared at the Lieu-tenant's office to post collateral on 10 charges of illegal parking in-curred over the period of a month. The $30 posted by Wilson was declared forfeited when the defend-ant did not appear yesterday after-noon in recorder's court. Station Lieutenant M. A. Horns-by, who received the collateral on the 10 parking fines, declared he thought it would be a fine idea if Wilson just opened an account at the police station, with a monthly statement of his account taking the place of the stack of parking ticket

Union Threatens Suits Against Mob Members-Unless City Acts.

21 21 21 GADSDEN, Ala., June 26 .- (AP)-

State highway patrolmen remained of duty today, but there was no new violence.

A statement issued at Akron by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company denied union charges that the company was responsible for the outbreak here.

Violence in the union efforts to organize the Goodyear workers first developed several weeks ago when S. H. Dalrymple, Akron, president of the rubber union, was beaten in what officials termed "a street fight."

FEIDELSON TO CONDUCT
U. S. PROBE INTO OUTBREAK
Federal investigation of the labor trouble among rubber workers in Alabama was started yesterday.

On instructions from Washington, Charles N. Feidelson, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, left Atlanta yesterday aftermoon for Brimingham.

Feidelson will start an inquiry into the difficulty at Birmingham and at Gadsden, where mobs Thursday stormed an organization office of the United Rubber Workers' Union, beat a number of the organizers and ordered them out of town.

Lottery Suspect Learns Policemen Are Tricky

Policemen Are Tricky
A negra lottery suspect, who came back for more after Detective J. B. King had taken him into custody once and released him for lack of evidence, finally found a berth in the Atlanta police station yesterday afternoon.

Detective King reported he caught the negro the first time after a short chase on Lakeview avenue, near the ball park. A search of the negro's person disclosed only a pencil and a small amount of change. "I suppose you are one who is not fooling with the bug," Detective King told the negro, and let him go.

When the negro left, King hid in some near-by undergrowth. A few minutes later the negro returned and drew a lottery book from behind a large rock near the spot where he was caught, King reported.

The negro was at a police headquarters shortly afterward and was booked on charges of "disorderly conduct, lottery" as L. D. Vaughn, 28, of a St. Charles way address. He was placed under $200 bond.

MASTER LOAN SERVICE announcing a new plan on loans, $100 and up on algnature only, for those who can qualify: or on security of furniture or endorsement. Not one penny of interest deducted and of course you only pay interest for the actual time you keep the money. Why pay a year's interest in advance when you may only need the money a few months. This is the only company in Atlanta operating strictly under the new small loan law.

HUMAN RIDDLES

That Have Vexed the World

By VINCENT TOWNE.

MESMER, THE WIZARD.

In 1778 there arrived in Paris an uncanny genius whose reputation for ability to heal the sick by a new and very sensational process caused him to be received with considerable awe.

This wizard, Frederic-Antoine Mesmer, was 44 years of age, tall, distinguished and impressive—s personality who, because of his extraordinary calm and self-reliance, radiated a sense of health and hope to thousands who came in contact with him. Leaving his native town of Swable, Germany, then sojourning in Paris. Mesmer came in contact with him. Leaving his native town of Swabia, Germany, he had gone to Vienna, where he had taken the degree of doctor of medicine, but had left the Viennese capital because of an alleged cabal against him, and before arriving in Paris had traveled throughout Europe.

Inside the great tub stood Mesmer, an imposing figure garbed in robes suggestive of a magician and robes suggestive of a magician and bearing an alleged "magic wand." As the "treatment" continued the patients would become excited, some of them would become excited, some of the falling into convulsions. These mysterious physician would calm.

Would Hold Subject's Hand. Individuals were treated at private seances. During such a treatment Mesmer would hold the subject's hand, touch his forehead and make before his face passes with the open hand. These manipulations produced convul-sions, hysteria and often catalepsy. The western world had never witnessed phenomena of the kind, and Mesmer's clinic became the mecca of invalids, hypochrondriacs, mystics and savants from all parts of the world.

Mesmer had discovered some force of whose origin he was quite as ignorant as was the public at large. Confusing it with electricity he called it magnetism—more often "animal" statement with the same than a century of investigation by his successors still vexes the human understanding. ed it magnetism—more often "anima magnetism." Following the experi ments of physicists then studying mag-netic forces he later applied to his pointed a commission to investigate and report upon his phenomena. This body included Benjamin Franklin. body included Benjamin Franklin, then sojourning in Paris. Mesmer avoided the investigators, although they appeared to regard him favorably. He later suggested that the French government subsidize him by giving him a general annuity that would enable him to treat patients without charge and to this and these traveled throughout Europe.

Lived in Hotel Bouret.

Mesmer took an apartment in the Hotel Bouret, in the center of Paris, near the Place Vendome, and immediately let it be known that he was ready to treat incurable diseases. Vanity fair, ever upon the lookout for new fads, especially new cures, at once flocked to the new physician. He became the vogue. His picturesque personality fascinated his patients, especially those of the feminine persuasion. It became whispered about that he possessed "magic power."

He invented a remarkable piece of aparatus that soon had Paris by the ears. It was known as the "magic tub" and consisted of a covered cylinder, inside which patients were seated in tiers. Each held a tube with the end of which he touched that part of his anatomy which he wished to be treated. Inside the great tub soud to be treated and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this end Queen Marie Antoinette was petitioned to without charge, and to this hard to without charge, and to this hard and consisted as a sort of the gueen referred the proposition to the government's Offer.

The queen referred the proposition to the government, which Each member had to pay Mesmer an initiation fee of 100 louis and annual dues of 60 francs. To become a member one had to be 25 years of aga and was required to abstain from to-bacco. Among the members of this strange brotherhood was America's friend, the Marquis de Lafayette.

Becoming involved in bitter quarrels and stubborn controversies, Mesmer left France in disguest, taking with him a fortune of 300,000 francs. After sojourning for a time in England er sojourning for a time in England and Germany he finally returned to his native Swabia, where at the age of 81 he died in 1815. He gave to the world mesmerism.

In Memoriam. In Memoriam.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Carl C. Johnson, who departed this life one year ago today, June 27, 1935;
I hear his voice no more,
I miss his tap upon the door.
In silence you suffered, in patience you bore,
But the pain is gone.

"He's all right now," I strive to say.
God loved you best and took you home to rest,
But, oh, what loss is mine.

Your Devoted Wife.
